CONDITIONS OF MEMBERSHIP

1. Both the Primary and Alternate Representatives are required to attach a resume indicating expertise in electromagnetic compatibility engineering.
2. Participation in C63 Subcommittee work can help demonstrate EMC capability in support of the membership application.
3. The membership application requires approval by vote of the Main Committee. Submit the application to the Chair of the Main Committee identified on the ANSC-C63 website. The Chair will forward it to the Secretary and the Secretariat of the Main Committee (IEEE).
4. To remain a member, the Primary or Alternate Representative must attend at least one Main Committee meeting per year and respond to procedural votes. Failure to respond to two consecutive remote administrative or procedural votes, or failure to participate in technical document balloting groups, may place membership at risk.
5. If accepted as an Organizational Member, the organization will be assessed an annual Membership Fee.
6. The Organizational Member may name up to three additional people who may participate in Subcommittee work without payment of additional fees.
